

HAWAI'I AGRICULTURE CONFERENCE

AG2024

Building CommUNITY through Hawai'i Agriculture

HAWAI'I CONVENTION CENTER -- NOVEMBER 7-8, 2024

Aloha mai Kākou Friends of Hawai'i Agriculture,

The Agricultural Leadership Foundation of Hawai'i (ALFH) is pleased to announce that the next statewide all-agriculture conference, AG2024, will be held November 7 - 8, 2024 at the Hawai'i Convention Center in Honolulu. This year's theme is:

"Building CommUNITY through Hawai'i Agriculture"

Hawai'i's agricultural system is complex, interwoven, and connected to the larger community ecosystem. It is also a nexus for building a healthier community through food security, ecosystem services, economic diversification and mālama for the environment.

Recent global and local disruptions have instilled a renewed recognition that our community values and needs agriculture from a holistic standpoint. Building a vibrant agricultural sector that includes feeding our community is a systems driven process, and the diverse players include producers, neighbors, landowners, lenders, decision-makers, consumers, and multiple other auxiliary industry representatives. Agriculture requires the engagement and contributions of this broader community to move forward.

Join us at AG2024 to explore opportunities for developing unified strategies to address complex issues. Discuss how the community's desire for a vibrant agricultural sector, food security, healthy communities and a thriving environment can inform and guide change. Help brainstorm, shape and implement agricultural plans at local and state levels and play a role in reconnecting to Hawai'i's core value of mālama 'āina to build a healthier and unified community.

We hope we can count on your participation and support to help us bring Hawai'i's agricultural community together
